The vegetable garden will be the first step for an HIV Support Group to become self sufficient in that it would be able to provide them with the essential sustenance needed to be healthy and it will also enable them to provide financial support to members of the group during times of illness. It is NMBT's hope that a company will eventually adopt this project and assist the group to realise their dream of forming a co-operative one day. So bring along some spades, forks or any other digging utensils and "Make the Change".
