

History and Location

The Grootkloof Reserve and Educational Centre is located in the suburb of Hillside. The Grootkloof Reserve opened in 2015 and is seen as a gateway to Van der Kemp's Kloof, which starts further to the west in Bethelsdorp and runs parallel up into Parson's Vlei, following the Chatty River and together forming a magnificent water and conservation resource.

The Reserve is home to dassies, bush hares, blue duiker and grysbok. More significantly, the reserve protects a rich array of indigenous plants beside the Watsonias, including proteas, and Fynbos glass eyes. Apart from the Grootkloof trail, the reserves also offers two other trails - The Dassie and Link Trails.

The 1.2km Dassie Trail that forms part of the larger trail, offers a shorter hike from where one can get a quick view of the reserve and spot a Dassie or two.

Visitors can also enjoy a longer guided hike of about 12km through Van Der Kemp's Kloof and Grootkloof on the Link Trail, where you'll discover the rare flora and fauna of the region.

Explore and Experience

The Grootkloof Educational Centre offers educational classes to schools and other interest groups.

Bethelsdorp Khoi Experience:

Tiqua, God of the Khoi:
Returning in time,
immersing yourself in the Khoi people's company,
exploring the area's fascinating biomes and unique wildlife.

Grootkloof Reserve is renowned for its unique plant life, including medicinal plants that like buchu, and other herbs used in food prepared and served as part of the Khoi experience.

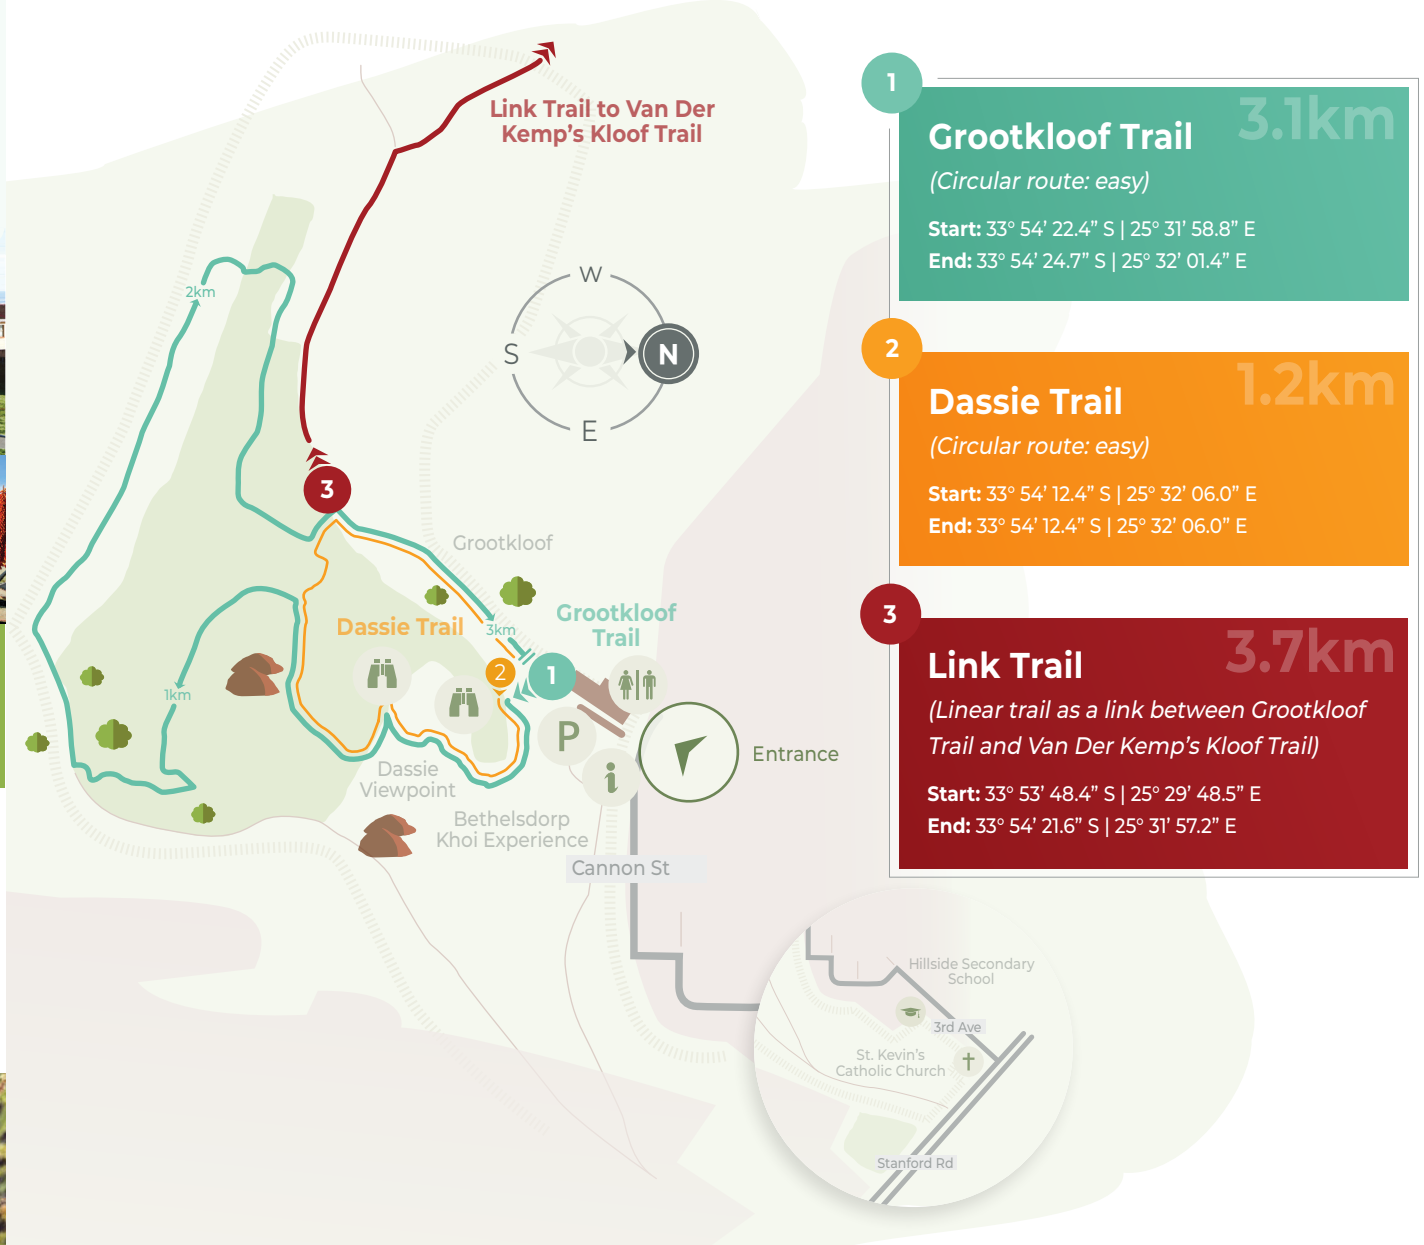

Learn about the fascinating history of the Bethelsdorp settlement and its importance in the region. Following the link trail between Van Der Kemp's Kloof and Grootkloof, you'll be treated to a traditional meal with a presentation on the area's history.

You'll also have the opportunity to meet a local Khoi Chief and learn about their ancient South African culture and visit Bethelsdorp, one of the first organized settlements in the Algoa Bay area, established in 1803 by Dr Johannes Theodosius Van Der Kemp of the London Missionary Society.
